

HIGH CHURCH DIGNITARIES ARRIVE FOR DEDICATION HERE ON SUNDAY

Archbishop Coming To-Night from New York to Assume Entire Charge of Program.

MANY SOCIETIES EXPECTED

Imposing Services to be Held at Russian Orthodox Church Attracting Great Attention Along the Valley

To prepare for the arrival of Archbishop Platon and to get everything in readiness for the dedication of St. John the Baptist Russian Orthodox church Sunday, Bishop Alexander with two priests arrived this morning from New York. Archbishop Platon with his coterie will arrive tonight from New York city.

The services which will be held Sunday morning at the church on Lookout avenue will be very imposing. Archbishop Platon, who is one of the most noted church dignitaries among foreign denominations in the United States, will have entire charge, and will be assisted by Bishop Alexander and the 20 or 25 priests and other church dignitaries who will be here from various places. The most imposing of the services will be the altar blessing.

From the Pittsburgh district and from places all along the valley visitors are expected, and Rev. J. Sechinsky, the local pastor this morning stated that in all probability there would be 50 societies here with four or five bands. Arrangements have been made for meeting these delegations as they enter town and conduct them to the church. The services there will begin at 11 o'clock.

DRAFT RESOLUTION OF ENDORSEMENT

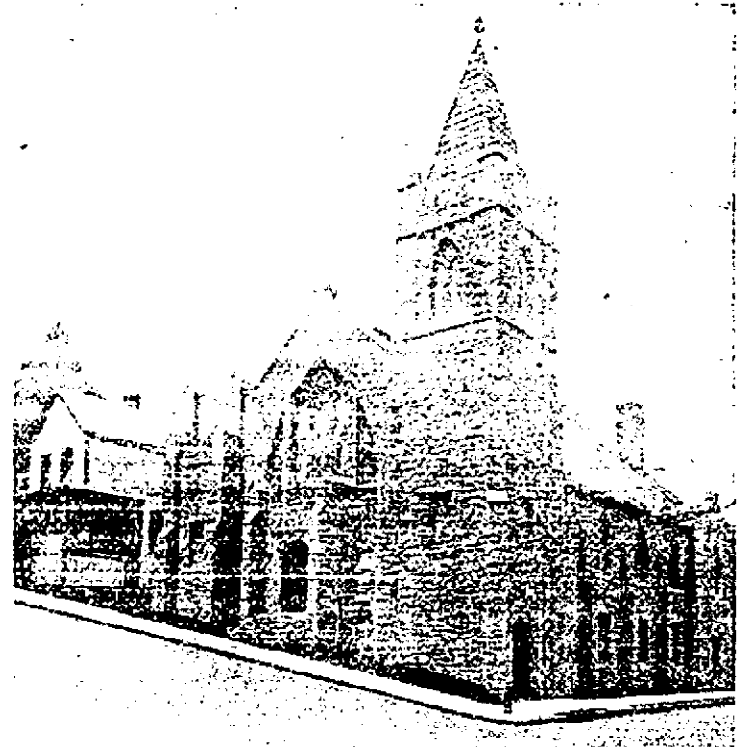

Hon. J. K. Tener Meets With Favor of Local Business Men

At the regular meeting of the Charleroi Business Men's Association, held October 6, 1910, it was unanimously resolved to endorse the candidacy of Hon. John K. Tener for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania, and the committee empowered to draft resolutions report as follows:

Resolved, That we, the members of the Charleroi Business Men's Association, knowing our fellow member, Hon. John K. Tener to be a man of good sound judgment, unquestionable integrity and rare business qualifications, and one who has done much for the interest of Charleroi, and believing that a business administration has proven to be the best for the State of Pennsylvania, and feeling assured that Hon. John K. Tener is thoroughly competent to fill the high office of Governor and will give the people a good, clean administration, and uphold with honor the sacred duties of this position, we heartily endorse his candidacy, and wish him every success on November 8.

LUTHERANS READY FOR CONVENTION TO BEGIN

Christ Lutheran Church, scene of big Lutheran Synod convention next week.

The entire program for the Sixty-eighth annual convention of the Pittsburgh Synod of the General Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church, to be held in Charleroi from October 10 to 14 inclusive, has been outlined by Rev. Chalmers E. Frontz, pastor of the Christ Lutheran church. Delegates are expected to arrive Monday morning and Monday afternoon to be placed at the various homes where they are to be entertained and in readiness for the opening session at 8 o'clock Monday evening.

At 7:30 o'clock Monday evening Rev. Alonzo J. Turkle will open the convention with the synodical sermon. Reports of a various nature are to be made on Tuesday morning, and each morning thereafter, until the convention closes, covering every part of the work being done by the synod.

Rev. Chalmers E. Frontz, Pastor Christ Lutheran church, and secretary of Pittsburgh Synod

Christ Lutheran church where the convention is to be held is one of the new thriving denominations of the synod the stone church edifice having been erected but two years. Rev. C. E. Frontz has been the pastor of the local flock for about five years, coming here at the time of the resignation of Rev. H. M. Leech who moved to Dubuque, Iowa. He has held the responsible office of secretary of the synod for a year.

Many Children Are Exposed to Disease

Diphtheria Epidemic Much Feared at Brownsville as Result

Health Officer Alex Labin of Brownsville, to prevent the spread of diphtheria there, has ordered the suspension of about 50 pupils from the Brownsville schools for 10 days. Mary Getzo, a little Hungarian girl who formerly lived in Baltimore street after a long siege of the disease is dead. Her little school chums desired to see the corpse and the parents of the deceased child not realizing any danger permitted the children to enter the house.

GROUP RALLY OF BAPTISTS

District Officers Elected For Ensuing Term

A group rally of the Monongahela Valley Group, comprising Charleroi, Monessen, Elizabeth, Monongahela, Library and Riverview Baptist churches was held at the Charleroi Baptist church Friday night, a good attendance being present. The evening was taken up with addresses of various nature along church work and songs.

Rev. Wallace of Monessen conducted a prayer and praise service, and addresses were given as follows: "Bible School Methods," Miss Hazel Stacher, Riverview; "China," Mrs. J. McClellan, Monessen; "The Moslem World," Miss Lulu Weddle, Monessen; "Bible Study," Miss Cora Soles, Homestead; "Methods in Young People's Work," Sheridan Roberts, Monongahela. Miss Cora Soles sang a solo and the local choir rendered a selection.

New officers were elected for the group as follows: President, Howard Evans, Riverview; vice president, Sheridan Roberts, Monongahela; secretary, Miss Lulu Weddle, Monessen; treasurer, D. N. Hall, Charleroi; corresponding secretary, Miss Laura Phillips, Library.

Engagement Announced

On next Tuesday at McKeesport will occur the wedding of Miss Nellie Gordon of that place to Walter B. Patterson of Elizabeth who is the assistant superintendent of the Prudential insurance company at Charleroi. The event will be one of the social functions of the month at McKeesport as both families are prominently connected. Miss Gordon is the daughter of Mrs. Harry Gordon. Mr. Patterson is the son of E. E. Patterson of Elizabeth.

MAN ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE IS MADE DEFENDANT IN DAMAGE SUIT WILL MAKE ALCOHOL BY A NEW PROCESS

The Ontario Chemical company of Monessen, has been granted a State charter for the manufacture in Monessen of alcohol and cologne spirits from the refuse of a nut which is found in South America. The company is capitalized at $50,000 and the officers are W. S. Bumbaugh, president; G. C. Smith, secretary; J. Howard Kelly, treasurer; and R. J. McLahan, superintendent. Monessen people are largely interested, and the distilling company building at that place has been purchased for $50,000 and an additional $30,000, expended for improvements and machinery. About 20 men will be employed at the plant which will begin operation about the first of December.

The process by which the alcohol and cologne spirits are made is a new discovery. The nut is secured from South America and resembles the coconut. It costs about $170 a ton brought to this section. A portion of the nut is used in button manufacturing, and the waste is the part utilized by the local company.

BELLE VERNON FACTORY TO BE COMPANY'S BEST

Extensive Improvements Being Made by American Window Glass Company During Temporary Suspension

Improvements are being made at Factory No. 4 of the American Window Glass company at Belle Vernon that when completed will put that plant in a position to be the leading one in the country in point of quality and percentage of production. At the same time the pay roll will be increased from $7,500 a week to $10,000 or $11,000. When the factory resumes, after a temporary suspension within the next five or six weeks 500 men will be given employment. The improvements include repairs to both ovens and building the boxshop and clay room.

Owing to slack trade conditions, it is stated, and from the fact that the Belle Vernon factory was costing more to operate than other factories of the company, it was closed down. Through the improvements it is hoped to cut down this cost of production. It is hoped that the output may be greatly increased.

In connection with the improvements to be made at the factory Superintendent T. C. McKinley is contemplating forming a men's club, a room to be secured and fitted up in some part of the town.

CIRCUS ATTRACTS MUCH ATTENTION

Howe's Great London Shows Appear in Charleroi Today

With all the trappings of the up-to-date circus Howe's Great London Shows arrived in town this morning at 5 o'clock and put up their tents on the show grounds, near the baseball park. The show attracted much attention while unloading and early this morning out-of-town people began to come in to witness the parade at noon and the performances this afternoon and evening.

The parade occurred at noon and it was a gorgeous display, equaling that of the best shows on the road. The fine appearance of the horses and other animals attracted great attention. The doors opened this afternoon at 2 o'clock and the afternoon performance is going on. The Howe shows has the cream of the profession in the way of performers. This evening's performance will begin at 8 o'clock, the doors to open at 7 o'clock. The Howe shows have the full line of sideshow attractions and has a meritorious program.

ATHENE CLUB HAS FIRST SESSION

Study of "The Other Americans" is Begun By Local Club

With a banner attendance of members, the Athene Club held their first meeting Friday afternoon, at which time Miss Laura Brown entertained at her home on Crest avenue. The session was opened with the song "America" by the club, after which Miss Margueretta Christy surrendered the gavel, and Miss Laura Brown made her address as the incoming president. Miss Ollie Hoge gave a parliamentary drill. The roll call was answered by quotation, on America. A social hour was enjoyed following the addresses, and refreshments were served.

This season the study of "The Other Americans" is being taken up. Last year the club studied "The Mediaeval Ages."

Mrs. Moses Enters Proceedings Against B. Frank Smith in the Sum of $100,000

CLAIMS HE SHOT HUSBAND

Loss of Support to Herself and Children Alleged Sufficient Reason for Payment of Sum Demanded

B. Frank Smith, in the limelight for weeks as principal in one of the most important murder trials in the history of Fayette county, is now defendant in the largest suit for personal damages ever presented in the courts of that county. Mrs. Louis Moser, wife of Evans Moser who was killed by Frank Smith, has entered a civil suit claiming $100,000 damages.

Mrs. Moser brings suit in her own name and on behalf of her two little children, made fatherless by the bullets from Frank Smith's Winchester on the night of February 27, 1910. She claims damages for the loss of support and maintenance provided by her husband; for the loss of his aid, comfort, companionship, love and affection, also the anguish which she suffered by reason of his death. She aver: that B. Frank Smith came into her home on the night of February 27, 1910, shooting her husband to death, then making his escape.

Although Smith was acquitted of murder on the grounds of insanity, that, the law holds, does not free him from liability for damages in a civil action. The records in the homicide trial, however, will likely be used in the civil suit, as Smith is on record as the man who killed Moser, he having admitted the deed. The estate of B. Frank Smith it is claimed, including that in his own name as well as that which he inherited from his father, is worth $50,000. The case will probably not be near until the March term. It is expected that Smith will be placed in an asylum before long and he will have to be brought back for the hearing.

"POP" GOULDEN DIES IN COLUMBUS, NEB.

Word has been received here from Columbus, Neb., of the death there Friday of Julius Harrison ("Pop") Golden, a former resident of Charleroi. No particulars have been received as yet, but owing to the fact that the telegram is from the corner of that city it is feared, that Golden may have been accidentally killed. "Pop" was a quaint negro character. He was known to practically every resident of Charleroi and apparently did not have an enemy in the world. He was industrious and of a thrifty nature, but possessed a roving disposition. Ten months ago "Pop" left Charleroi. When last seen walking in the direction of Washington and carrying a knapsack containing all his valuable and worldly possessions. From that time until this he was not heard from by his friends, and consequently his death comes as some what of a shock. "Pop" claimed he came from Africa, and being a great traveler had visited numerous places on this continent.

A Comparison

Now that Portugal is very much in the public eye, some comparisons with that interesting kingdom may be interesting. Portugal is about three-fourths the size of the State of Pennsylvania in area, and contains a million less inhabitants than this Commonwealth. Yet Portugal is a kingdom, and maintains besides the regular public expenses, such as schools, hospitals, and charitable institutions, a standing army and a navy, as well as maintaining diplomatic relations with the other governments of the world. In addition to this is the expenses of royalty, which are incurred by tradition and divine right; and not by service or utility,
as in this State.

Compared with this it will be seen that the inhabitants of Pennsylvania have a whole lot on the inhabitants of Portugal. To insure domestic safety and tranquility abroad, Portugal must maintain diplomatic relations and special treaties and alliance with other countries; in order to prevent some stronger nation from gobbling up her diminutive kingdom. All of this incurs additional expense and taxation, which add to the burden of the Portuguese taxpayer. The people of Pennsylvania have an alliance with Uncle Sam which is all in the family, but affords ample protection, and all that this additional protection costs is some indirect taxes on luxuries,
clothing, tobacco, beer and whisky,
the payment of much of which is purely optional with the Pennsylvania taxpayer. There is perhaps not a country in Europe but what would gladly exchange taxpaying requirements with Pennsylvania for the national protection afforded.

In the National Guard Pennsylvania
has the equivalent of a standing army,
and it is not particularly expensive.

NATIONAL PRIZE OF STATE FIGHT

Congress and Next Presidency Involved in Result.

The campaign now being waged throughout Pennsylvania and in every congressional district in the Union, is of national scope.

It leads directly up to the presidency. Two years from now we shall be electing a president. This struggle is preliminary. This fact should not be overlooked.

All over the country the Democrats are aroused. They are claiming that in November they will elect a majority in the national house of representatives. They have figured—and they are right in their figures—that if they can but gain thirteen senators they will also control the senate. They already have carried the state of Maine, which means the gain of two representatives and one United States senator. They believe that they can win in New York, in Massachusetts,
in Ohio, in Indiana, in a dozen states
now aligned with the Republican party.

They are cock sure of the house.
They are cock sure that they will reduce the Republican majority in the senate to a beggarly majority, even if they do not wipe out that majority entirely.

But they are certain, if they fail in getting rid of that majority this time that, two years hence, they will sweep that majority out of existence. Two years hence they expect to elect their president and give him a Democratic congress.

That is the object at which they are aiming, and they have brought the chairman of the Democratic national congressional committee into Pennsylvania to help them to do it.

For they rely upon Pennsylvania to help along the Democratic cause.
It is up to the Republicans of Pennsylvania to say whether they shall receive aid in this great Republican struggle.

There are two sets of Democrats in Pennsylvania. There are the Berry Democrats, who are running after William H. Berry, the friend, the follower, the disciple of William Jennings Bryan. Mr. Berry wants to be elected governor, but at the same time he asks you to vote for him on the Keystone Party ticket, which carries numerous Democratic candidates for congress and for the legislature.

Vote for Berry on the Keystone ticket and you vote not only for the reputation of President Taft, for the reputation of former President Roosevelt, but you vote for Democratic congressmen and for Democratic or assistant Democratic members of the legislature.

And if you vote for Democratic members of the legislature you vote in turn for a Democratic United States senator, and you vote for a combination which will reappoint
the state in the congressional districts that additional Democratic congress-

The Cry of the Age is "Back to the Farm"

With the best market in the world at his door, the intensive farmer located in the Monongahela valley is the wise man of his generation.

Every town has as much need of the small truck, fruit and poultry farms around it as it has for more factories. Such farms make living better and cheaper for the laboring man and more business for the merchant.

I have secured control of a large farm within five minutes walk of the borough limits and will, within the next six weeks, sell it out in small farms. I now have purchasers for about one-half of it and owing to the great demand for small farms near Charleroi expect to close all sales for these farms in a very short time.

A farm big enough for all the boys to work as a truck, poultry and fruit farm while the father works at the mill, can be bought for the price of a cheap town lot. Good country school nearby.

A farm big enough to require the whole time of one intensive farmer can be bought for $500.00. Read the Pittsburg papers about the great land show which will be held there within the next few weeks and learn what can be raised on a few acres of ground by the new methods of intensive farming.

Call at the office of Charles O. Frye, 511 Washington Avenue, and get full particulars.

TRIUMPHANT TOUR OF TENER PARTY

Republican Nominees Cordially Received Everywhere.

ROBERT S. MURPHY'S TRIBUTE

Former Lieutenant Governor Speaks
In High Praise of His Successful
Rival For Governorship.

As the tour of John K. Tener, the "see for governor," and his colleagues on the Republican ticket carries them from county to county and the day of election draws nearer, interest in the campaign continues to grow and the meetings continue to attract immense crowds at every important stopping place. Since the very outset of the campaign there has not been a disappointing feature and all signs point to a Republican victory.

Probably one of the most interesting occasions of the trip was the inspection given Mr. Tener in Jones town, the home of Lieutenant Governor Robert S. Murphy, who was probably the most prominently mentioned of those proposed for the nomination which ultimately went to Mr.
Tener. The citizenship of this industrial center turned out in great numbers to greet the Tener party, and Lieutenant Governor Murphy was their spokesman and he presided over the meeting.

Mr. Murphy, in an eloquent address, reviewed the issues and in referring to Mr. Tener spoke of him as "a man of splendid heart, with a sound brain
in a sound body; one who is in sympathy with labor and who is acquainted with the toil in the work shop and mill; one who has attained a position in the community in which he resides
for business integrity and a business ability second to none; one who has lifted himself by the aid of superior talents into a position of prominence and influence in the financial world of western Pennsylvania; one who ably represented his district in the congress of the United States; one whose Republicanism is unstained and who is in hearty accord with the policies of his party in the nation and with the policies of the present state administration, to the carrying out and execution of which he has pledged himself. None who knows him but will believe that this promise will be thoroughly redeemed."

"It is my privilege," concluded Mr.
Murphy, "to know him personally, and I esteem him as a man of high ideals, clean in thought and speech, and beyond the slightest reproach in public or private life."

Mr. Murphy expressed the belief that Mr. Tener will have a big majority.

Progressive Pennsylvania.

In one of his recent speeches Mr.
Tener took occasion to refer to the advanced position held by Pennsylvania in the matter of statutes advocated by some so-called progressives, laws for the protection of labor and other interests, and upon this subject, among other things, he said:

"I have frequently stated and absolutely believe that Pennsylvania is the best governed state in the nation and that its several administrative departments are honestly and efficiently governed."

"During the past four years Pennsylvania, in advance of all the other states, met the issues and gave to the people such laws as were demanded, and in this respect took advanced ground in what is now known as progressive legislation so much sought after by our sister states, and resulting entirely to the credit of the Republican party and to the great honor of this commonwealth."

"Today many of our sister states
are seeking to emulate the example set by Pennsylvania, and especially is
New York state active in this respect.
The differences between the factions
there are due to divided opinion upon just such legislation as we have already enacted into law, Pennsylvania, through the Republican party, has placed many laws on its statute books favorable to the workmen, and these laws were passed at the suggestion and in compliance with the issues of union labor."

Strong Taxation Policy.

In this connection one of his colleagues, the nominee for lieutenant governor, John M. Reynolds, a few nights ago, said:

"The policy of the Republican party,
in this state since 1865 has been to relieve the individual of the burden of taxation and to place the same upon those sources most able to bear it.
This will be seen from the fact that the total revenues for 1909, amounting to over $29,000,000, were derived from four sources: Corporations, about seventeen million dollars; personal property, over four million dollars;
collateral inheritance, over one million seven hundred thousand dollars;
mercantile, brewery and distilleries licenses, over three million dollars."

"From this was supported the state government, charitable institutions,
hospitals for the insane, dispensaries, sanitariums, reformatories and penitentiaries, soldiers' orphans' schools,
besides payment for primary election expenses, appropriations to public schools and other items aggregating a little over thirty million dollars."

"The fact that stands out most prominent and to the credit of the foresight and skill of our lawmakers is shown in comparing the revenues and expenses of 1890 with that of 1909. In the former year the revenues and expenses were each over eight millions, and in 1909 they were each in excess of twenty-nine million dollars.
"With few changes in the tax laws
the corporate growth paid in the main this excess in revenues, enabling the state government to relieve local taxation."

"The wisdom shown by this system is today commanding the attention of our sister states, and movements are on foot in some of them to secure its adoption by them, which shows that practical business heads have directed the affairs in this state."

Mr. Tener Returns to Industrial Town
Where He Was Once a Clerk and Is Received With Open Arms—He Is Heading a Wave of Enthusiasm
Through the State.

The disgruntled and disappointed old factionists in Pennsylvania politics are dying hard, yet they are dying as certainly as night follows day. Here we are within about thirty days of the gubernatorial election and the old chaps who have kept themselves to the front in politics by promoting discord and unrest are halting and hesitating over the best way to deceive the people into securing a continuation of their factional rule. That bushwacking band of has-beens who have been forced well to the rear in the politics of the State have completely exhausted themselves in their malicious determination to foment political discord and the election of John K. Tener, the regular Republican candidate to succeed Governor Edwin S. Stuart, by a vote much larger than that given to the present executive is absolutely assured. The managers of the Keystone party, realizing their own rapid decay have, for several weeks, been feeling out for some convenient jumping off place. These managers were shrewd enough to appreciate that the voters of the State could not be successfully rallied about a personal grievance. They knew, apparently, that Mr. Berry, the Keystone party candidate for Governor had nothing to offer but a protest against the Allentown convention which turned him down hard and flat and early in the campaign these managers concluded that the voters were not disposed to discipline the Democracy, at best a harmless minority. Then came the motion from the discontents to have both Berry and Webster Grim, the regular Democratic candidate for Governor, withdraw from the contest and allow the old factionists to name a candidate that might have some show in the battle with Mr. Tener, the Republican nominee. The factionists forced Berry to the front of the stage with a proclamation that he would retire if he had to. He protested that no other man in the State could successfully take his place but he yielded to the bidding of his factionist managers and agreed to retire if the self-appointed delegates to the personally conducted convention which nominated him would reassemble and throw him off their ticket. As many of these self-appointed delegates had already seen the error of their way and had returned to their former parties another convention like the one which nominated Berry was physically impossible and of course Mr. Berry knew that fact. The disgruntled Democrats were largely in the majority among the Berryites and were forcing recognition and the selection of Democratic candidates for congress at every possible point in the State. After the Keystone party ticket had been well-buried with Democratic candidates those Republicans who had been in at the delivery of the Keystone party shifted promptly and the Keystone party soon became a mere faction of the Democracy of the State. It was then that Clarence Gibbons, the Keystone party's candidate for Lieutenant Governor, protested. He had found the answer for the Keystone fight and he promptly served notice that he must refuse to go along farther as the tail to the Democratic kite. He refused to allow his fellow factionists to longer exploit their grievances at the expense of his own campaign fund. Berry and all the other Keystone candidates could retire and go to so far as Gibbons was concerned, but he regarded his nomination or appointment as a Keystone party candidate as a personal asset and while the other candidates of the party might do as they pleased he proposed to stick. With a view to moving Gibbons the regular Democrats were appealed to, but all to no purpose. The executive committee of the Democratic organization assembled in Philadelphia last Saturday and simply scorned the motion made originally by disappointed place hunters that the Democratic candidates take themselves out of the State fight. It was unanimously agreed by the Democratic leaders that their candidates should continue in the field to the bitter end. The fusionists and factionists were denounced and it was resolved that the scheme to bring about the retirement of the Democratic candidates was nothing short of an insult. State Chairman Arthur G. Dewalt declared that the regular Democrats of the State would not stand for Mr. Berry. He argued that Berry had entered the Democratic convention as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination and had been beaten, fairly and honestly, and he was opposed vigorously and earnestly to rewarding disappointed place hunters. Chairman Dewalt pointed to the fact that about all the Republicans who had joined in the under-ground methods by which Mr. Berry was given a nomination had become disgusted with the work of the Keystone party and had abandoned it and returned to their own party fold, and he insisted that the Berry men who are opposed to the election of Mr. Tener could find an opportunity to vent their wrath by voting for Mr. Grim or staying away from the polls altogether. The Democratic leaders agreed that the fight in the State had narrowed down to a contest for second place between Mr. Berry and Mr. Grim and they were convinced from the reports at hand that Mr. Grim would beat Berry. They appealed earnestly to their party followers to fight hard to prevent the destruction of their party and they advanced a variety of arguments to prove that Grim would be a stronger candidate than Berry.

In the meantime Mr. Tener is making a triumphal tour through the State. He is making an average of three speeches a day. Wherever he appears he is creating substantial enthusiasm. He is standing firmly upon the record of the Republican party and his own work. He talks earnestly and sincerely to his crowds at every meeting and following him from county to county are the applause and encouragement of a united party which sees in him the advance agent of vigorous, active, young blood which promises best for the State and its various institutions. Mr. Tener looks like a Governor. His personality is attractive. His manner is gracious and he looks and talks like a positive, well-balanced business man. He likes the people and naturally the people like him. He is healthy, physically and mentally, and he has a wonderful capacity for hard work. On Saturday last he made a speech at a Republican meeting at Jeannette, in Westmoreland county. He had gone to that place before Jeannette was established. He was employed as a clerk in the first glass house established there and when he returned as a candidate of the majority party for Governor he was received with open arms. He told of the organization of the town as he had personally watched that organization and among other things he said:

"It is not my purpose to dwell at length upon national issues, except to remind you that no measure of prosperity whatever has ever been enjoyed by you, by the people of Pennsylvania or anywhere else in the entire United States except under Republican rule, and through the operation of a protective tariff. The Republican party has ever been committed to maintain a tariff for the protection of American industries and for the benefit of American workmen, and ever will be until such time as labor in this country is content to live as poorly, dress as shabbily, rear their children as ignorantly as in European countries, and with poorer food and less of it than it now enjoys; to the same degree has our party in the State been ever watchful for the best interests of our people."

"The platform of the Republican party was adopted more than three months ago and stands today just as it was written, without one word being added to or taken therefrom, and it is the platform upon which I stand squarely, as do my associates on the ticket. It is the platform which the Republican party in New York, led by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, has practically adopted. It pledges to enact such legislation as the people of this commonwealth demand and is keeping with the policy of our great party for many years past."

"The success of the Republican party is due to the fact that it has always kept faith with the people in this State, and by the passage of good laws and the rigid enforcement of the same, so that today Pennsylvania under Republican rule is being commended and congratulated by her sister States upon the advance ground she has taken. No less a personage than ex-President Roosevelt in a recent speech delivered at Pittsburgh loudly praised Pennsylvania for her good laws and their fearless enforcement by our State administration. In my opinion it is because of the wish and beneficial legislation which we have enacted and enforced that there is not that uprising in this commonwealth so noticeable in other States at this time."

AMONG THE THEATRES

The Palace—Charleroi
"A Forgotten Melody," was the title on a melodramatic life motion Vitograph picture at the Palace Theatre this week that made a strong impression upon the spectators. The story was that of a happy household made desolate by the disappearance of the wife and mother who labors under the hallucination that her little daughter is drowned. The little one strays from her mother's side to a canoe moored at the river bank where she leaves her hat. Later two boys take the canoe and in their sport upset it and leave it bottom upward. The mother searching for the child, sees the overturned canoe and the hat, and becomes mentally unbalanced through grief. She wanders away, but is found and restored to reason by the childish melodies of the little one. The various scenes show some strong dramatic action. Douglas Robertson and Donald Garrison continue to be star attractions with their illustrated and spot light songs. The few exhibitions nightly with a change of program are drawing capacity houses.

The Nixon—Pittsburg

Lillian Russell is coming to the Nixon Theatre next week in her newest vehicle, "In Search of a Sinner," a comedy in three acts by Charlotte Thompson. Miss Thompson had Lillian Russell in mind when she wrote "In Search of a Sinner" and employed many suggestions of the star in the completion of that story. The story itself is quite unique. Miss Russell presents a vivacious picture of a widow who has just decided that if she marries again, her husband will be less a saint but correspondingly human. Falling in love, her plan is upset by the fact that the man is recommended by her friends as a better fellow than her first husband. Inasmuch as the undeviating goodness of the latter became a perfect bore, the widow sets about to try to make the other chap believe he is a sinner. When she finds that she is succeeding, she changes her mind and gets busy trying to win him back. Mr. Joseph Brooks is presenting Miss Russell this season in the largest production he has ever made for her. Her supporting company is evenly balanced and includes Harry C. Brown, Joseph Tucky, Hattie Russell, Jessie Ralph, Lynn Pratt, Irving Cummings, John C. Brammell, Edward Warren, Victor Bencit, Daniel Fitzgerald, Olive Harper and Viola Leach. There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees at the Nixon during Miss Russell's engagement.

New Duquesne—Pittsburg

Laughter will reign supreme at the Duquesne Theatre in Pittsburg next week, October 10, when the Harry Davis Stock company will give "The Man From Mexico." This is the play which made Willie Collier famous. The uproarious comic complications of this farce arise out of the ruse of hero, Benjamin Fitzhew, to prevent his wife and friends from discovering the fact that he has been obliged—by accident, be it said—to send a short vacation in jail. The first act, in which he is shadowed by a Tammany deputy sheriff in his own home; the second act, in which he does the lockstep with the other "jailed" in Blackwell's Island, and becomes mixed up in a prison conspiracy for escape, and the last act, in which he returns to the bosom of his family with the pretense of having spent his 30 days in Mexico, all make the spectators shake their sides with laughter from the first rise of the curtain to the very finish. The description of the bull fight has often been declared to be one of the most side-splitting pieces of wit in any comedy. Not only is the mendacious Fitzhew such an entertaining character, but all the other personages in this lively fare, with its overbubbling merriment, are enjoyable characterizations, for Mrs. Fitzhew, who visits the jail in company with the flower mission, and has a dead secret of her own, to Warden Lovell, a unique character, who falls in love with Fitzhew's wife under a misapprehension as to her identity. All of which would go to forecast an exceptional delightful week at the Duquesne.

The Alvin—Pittsburg

Henry W. Savage's production of "The Merry Widow" will be the attraction at the Alvin Theatre in Pittsburg next week. It comes with an entirely new production on up-to-date lines. The gowns and millinery fresh from the Parisian studios of Mme. Zimmerman and the Landolt's, Paris; and the cast was pronounced during the recent return run in Boston quite the best that has ever been seen in the merry piece.

Mabel Wilber will sing the role of Sona. She first entered the cast during the run at the New Amsterdam Theatre, New York, and has ever since been the attractive widow of Mr. Savage's principal company playing the opera from the east to the west. Her voice is of excellent quality and highly cultured, and her dancing the most graceful ever seen in the role. Prince Danilo will be played by Charles Meakins. The original comedians of the New York run are with this company. R. E. Graham is Popoff, Fred Frear is Nish and F. J. McCarthy the jealously-torn Nova Kovich. A valuable addition to the present company is Ivy Scott, renowned in Australia for her singing and good acting. Mr. Savage will display his custom lavish expenditure in the orchestral dress of this production. "The Merry Widow" orchestra of grand opera strength under the direction of Arthur Weld, will interpret Lieber's melodies. Harold Blake, one of the best lyric tenors of the light opera stage is also in the cast.

The Grand—Pittsburg

A strange band of little people will invade Pittsburg next week. They will take up their abode in the hotels and boarding houses down town and spend a large portion of their time at the Grand Opera House, where, beginning next Monday afternoon and twice each day during the week, they will be an especially attractive feature of an unusual vaudeville show. They are known as Zeynard's Royal Lilliputians and the company numbers fifty. The smallest of these midgets is twenty five inches tall and the largest is scarcely over thirty inches. They represent practically every nationality in the world and this is the first time so many Lilliputians have been gathered together in a single company. They are loaned to Manager Harry Davis for the week at the Grand by the courtesy of Messrs. Sam S. and Lee Shubert and their performance will consist of a regulation three ring circus. Every one of the dwarfs is a real actor and most of them are gifted with exceptional abilities. They have small horses, dwarf dogs, miniature conveyances, and yet they accomplish feats that would do credit to full grown men and women athletes. There are singers and dancers equestrians, ground and lofty tumblers, aerial gymnasts, acrobats jugglers, animal trainers, etc. Many of them are from far distant climes were born among strange people and have travelled all over the world.

Manager Harry Davis announces all of other acts of the first quality. He will introduce the famous darkey composers Cole and Johnson. They open their act with an original piano solo by Johnson, entitled "Dance Caprice." The vocal numbers in their program include "I Never Knew What Love Was, Sweetheart, Until I Met You," "Let Me Love You a Little Longer, Lindy," "Ring Them Bells," "Winning Ways," "Prophetic Pruto Lee," and conclude with a medley of rare old successes, among them "Lindy Lou," "Dreamy Eyes" and "Honey Babe."

The Broadway prima donna, Linden Beckwith, who was with the original production of "The Midnight Sons," will sing a number of songs. She sings "Coming Through the Rye," "True Blue," "Marie" and a popular selection from "The Chocolate Soldier."

The Four McNalleys, three men and one woman will give a combination comedy in which physical feats will dominate.

The popular Meridith Sisters are coming and this will be their first engagement here in four or five years. Cunningham and Marion are to introduce acrobats of a comic character and incidentally engage in patter. The bill will contain a number of other important attractions and exhibition of moving pictures.

IMPALED BY AN ARROW.

Pinned Through the Neck to a Tree, Yet He Survived.

It was in the summer of 1859 that George Wainwright and Ben Spencer, each in charge of a train of freight wagons, were headed for the Missouri river to bring supplies back to Colorado points. The Indians were very troublesome in those days, and these two outfits always camped together for protection. One night they had arranged the camp, with the wagons forming a circle, and everybody but the guards was to be inside. Wainwright preferred to sleep in a clump of cottonwoods about a quarter of a mile off, and there he fixed himself with his negro servant as a bodyguard. Neither the camp nor Wainwright was disturbed during the night, but early the next morning while Wainwright was sitting on the ground with his back to a tree drinking his tin of coffee an arrow from an unseen foe entered his neck at the right of the jugular vein and was driven with such force as to impale the victim to the tree. The negro, believing his master was killed, ran to Spencer's camp and gave the alarm.

Spencer and some of his men rushed over to Wainwright. Instead of being dead Wainwright was not even seriously injured. Spencer cut the arrow off close to the point of entrance and then gently drew Wainwright's head forward until he was released. The victim suffered but little inconvenience from the wound, and by the time the trip was completed it was entirely healed.—Los Angeles Times.

THE CAMERA OBSCURA.

From It Was Evolved Our Modern Photographic Apparatus.

The camera was invented by an Italian named Baptista Porta, though it was not at first used for photographing. It was in reality merely a dark room, into which the light was admitted through a little round hole in one side. The rays of light coming from objects outside of this room entered it through this aperture and made a picture on the other side of the room glowing in all the beauty and color of nature itself, but rather indistinct and upside down.

This dark room was contrived by Porta about the middle of the sixteenth century. He improved it later by placing a glass lens in the aperture and outside a mirror which received the rays of light and reflected them through the lens so that the image upon the opposite wall within was made much brighter, more distinct and in a natural or erect position. This was really the first camera obscura, an invention which is enjoyed to the present day.

Now our modern photographic camera is merely a small camera obscura in its simplest form, carrying a lens at one end and a ground glass screen at the other. It is, however, often much more complicated in its construction.

DRAWS OUT POISON

Marvelous Antiseptic That Draws Out Glass, Wood and Needles From the Flesh

There never was known such a powerful drawing ointment as San Cura. Wherever it has been used it has created astonishment. It drew a needle out of the foot of the daughter of Mrs. James Hitchcock of Centerville, Pa., after the doctor had used his lance and failed.

Used as a poultice for old or running sores it draws all the poison
out and leaves it in such condition that it is entirely healed in a few days.

Nothing so healing or antiseptic can be purchased today. It possesses so much healing virtue that it is guaranteed by W. F. Hennings to quickly cure any kind of piles,
eczema, tetter, salt rheum, boils, carbuncles, ulcers, all kinds of chronic sores, chilblains and chapped hands or money back.

It's a mighty handy remedy to have in the house in an emergency, such as bruises, burns, cuts or scalds, because it kills the pain instantly. It's a medicine chest in itself—a little family physician that is ever in demand, 25 cents and 50 cents a jar at
W. F. Hennings.

BEST SKIN SOAP

Is San Cura Soap, because of its great antiseptic and healing virtue.
Use it regularly, and it will make the skin soft and velvety; will remove pimples and blackheads. It's the real soap for babies' tender skin, which mothers of infants should remember.

DONORA PEOPLE SORE AT THEIR WATER COMPANY

Dissatisfied with the quality of service of the Donora Water company, the council of that place is having investigations made and interesting developments are expected to follow.
Anton Weis is the chairman of the special committee appointed to look into complaints. One of the main complaints is from J. B. McCune, chief of the fire department, who says that in a test made by him of fire plugs, there was only a maximum pressure of 90 pounds and two of the plugs were as low as five pounds. It is claimed that there is much filth in the water and that the water company fails to make connections in some places where requests are made.

TIME IS THE TEST

The Testimony of Charleroi People Stand the Test

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Charleroi people appreciate merit,
and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizens make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented. A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. Charles Bromwich, 714 Washington avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says:
"About two years ago I had a severe attack of kidney disease and suffered a great deal from pains in the small of my back. I was also subject to headaches and feeling of languor and although I tried a number of remedies
I was not helped. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally recommended to me,
and desiring to try them, I procured
a box at Piper Bros. Drug Store.
In a few days after using this remedy,
I felt a great deal better and before long a complete cure was effected.
Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement." Statement given September 3, 1907.

CURED PERMANENTLY.

On November 6, 1909, Mrs. Bromwich said: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as highly today as when I gave a public statement in their favor two years ago. The cure this remedy effected has been permanent."

HIGH CHURCH DIGNITARIES ARRIVE FOR DEDICATION HERE ON SUNDAY

Archbishop Coming To-Night from New York to Assume Entire Charge of Program.

To prepare for the arrival of Archbishop Platon and to get everything in readiness for the dedication of St. John the Baptist Russian Orthodox church Sunday, Bishop Alexander with two priests arrived this morning from New York. Archbishop Platon with his coterie will arrive tonight from New York city.

The services which will be held Sunday morning at the church on Lookout avenue will be very imposing. Archbishop Platon, who is one of the most noted church dignitaries among foreign denominations in the United States, will have entire charge, and will be assisted by Bishop Alexander and the 20 or 25 priests and other church dignitaries who will be here from various places. The most imposing of the services will be the altar blessing.

From the Pittsburgh district and from places all along the valley visitors are expected, and Rev. J. Sechin-sky, the local pastor this morning stated that in all probability there would be 50 societies here with four or five bands. Arrangements have been made for meeting these delegations as they enter town and conduct them to the church. The services there will begin at 11 o'clock.

Hon. J. K. Tener Meets With Favor of Local Business Men

At the regular meeting of the Charleroi Business Men's Association, held October 6, 1910, it was unanimously resolved to endorse the candidacy of Hon. John K. Tener for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania, and the committee empowered to draft resolutions report as follows:

Resolved, That we, the members of the Charleroi Business Men's Association, knowing our fellow member, Hon. John K. Tener to be a man of good sound judgment, unquestionable integrity and rare business qualifications, and one who has done much for the interest of Charleroi, and believing that a business administration has proven to be the best for the State of Pennsylvania, and feeling assured that Hon. John K. Tener is thoroughly competent to fill the high office of Governor and will give the people a good, clean administration, and uphold with honor the sacred duties of this position, we heartily endorse his candidacy, and wish him every success on November 8.

A group rally of the Monongahela Valley Group, comprising Charleroi, Monessen, Elizabeth, Monongahela, Library and Riverview Baptist churches was held at the Charleroi Baptist church Friday night, a good attendance being present. The evening was taken up with addresses of various nature along church work and songs.

Rev. Wallace of Monessen conducted a prayer and praise service, and addresses were given as follows: "Bible School Methods," Miss Hazel Stacher, Riverview; "China," Mrs. J. McClellan, Monessen; "The Moslem World," Miss Lulu Weddle, Monessen; "Bible Study," Miss Cora Soles, Homestead; "Methods in Young People's Work," Sheridan Roberts, Monongahela. Miss Cora Soles sang a solo and the local choir rendered a selection.

New officers were elected for the group as follows: President, Howard Evans, Riverview; vice president, Sheridan Roberts, Monongahela; secretary, Miss Lulu Weddle, Monessen; treasurer, D. N. Hall, Charleroi; corresponding secretary, Miss Laura Phillips, Library.

MAN ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE IS MADE DEFENDANT IN DAMAGE SUIT

WILL MAKE ALCOHOL BY A NEW PROCESS

The Ontario Chemical company of Monessen, has been granted a State charter for the manufacture in Monessen of alcohol and cologne spirits from the refuse of a nut which is found in South America. The company is capitalized at $50,000 and the officers are W. S. Boushough, president; G. C. Smith, secretary; J. Howard Kelly, treasurer; and R. J. McLahan, superintendent. Monessen people are largely interested, and the distilling company building at that place has been purchased for $50,000 and an additional $30,000, expended for improvements and machinery. About 20 men will be employed at the plant which will begin operation about the first of December.

The process by which the alcohol and cologne spirits are made is a new discovery. The nut is secured from South America and resembles the coconut. It costs about $170 a ton brought to this section. A portion of the nut is used in button manufacturing, and the waste is the part utilized by the local company.

At the same time the pay roll will be increased from $7,500 a week to $10,000 or $11,000. When the factory resumes, after a temporary suspension within the next five or six weeks 500 men will be given employment. The improvements include repairs to both ovens and building the boxshop and

Howe's Great London Shows Appear in Charleroi Today

With all the trappings of the up-to-date circus Howe's Great London Shows arrived in town this morning at 5 o'clock and put up their tents on the show grounds, near the baseball park. The show attracted much attention while unloading and early this morning out-of-town people began to come in to witness the parade at noon and the performances this afternoon and evening.

The parade occurred at noon and it was a gorgeous display, equaling that of the best shows on the road. The fine appearance of the horses and other animals attracted great attention. The doors opened this afternoon at 2 o'clock and the afternoon performance is going on. The Howe shows has the cream of the profession in the way of performers. This evening's performance will begin at 8 o'clock, the doors to open at 7 o'clock. The Howe shows have the full line of sideshow attractions and has a meritorious program.

Mrs. Moses Enters Proceedings Against B. Frank Smith in the Sum of $100,000

B. Frank Smith, in the limelight for weeks as principal in one of the most important murder trials in the history of Fayette county, is now defendant in the largest suit for personal damages ever presented in the courts of that county. Mrs. Louis Moser, wife of Evans Moser who was killed by Frank Smith, has entered a civil suit claiming $100,000 damages.

Mrs. Moser brings suit in her own name and on behalf of her two little children, made fatherless by the bullets from Frank Smith's Winchester on the night of February 27, 1910. She claims damages for the loss of support and maintenance provided by her husband; for the loss of his aid, comfort, companionship, love and affection, also the anguish which she suffered by reason of his death. She aver: that B. Frank Smith came into her home on the night of February 27, 1910, shooting her husband to death, then making his escape.

Although Smith was acquitted of murder on the grounds of insanity, that, the law holds, does not free him from liability for damages in a civil action. The records from the homicide trial, however, will likely be used in the civil suit, as Smith is on record as the man who killed Moser, he having admitted the deed. The estate of B. Frank Smith it is claimed, including that in his own name as well as that which he inherited from his father, is worth $50,000. The case will probably not be heard until the March term. It is expected that Smith will be placed in an asylum before long and he will have to be brought back for the hearing.

ATHENE CLUB HAS FIRST SESSION

Study of "The Other Americans" is Begun By Local Club

With a banner attendance of members, the Athene Club held their first meeting Friday afternoon, at which time Miss Laura Brown entertained at her home on Crest avenue. The session was opened with the song "America" by the club, after which Miss Margueretta Christy surrendered the gavel, and Miss Laura Brown made her address as the incoming president. Miss Ollie Hoge gave a parliamentary drill. The roll call was answered by quotation, on America. A social hour was enjoyed following the addresses, and refreshments were served.

This season the study of "The Other Americans" is being taken up. Last year the club studied "The Mediaeval Ages."

"POP" GOULDEN DIES IN COLUMBUS, NEB.

Word has been received here from Columbus, Neb., of the death there Friday of Julius Harrison ("Pop") Golden, a former resident of Charleroi. No particulars have been received as yet, but owing to the fact that the telegram is from the corner of that city it is feared, that Golden may have been accidentally killed. "Pop" was a quaint negro character. He was known to practically every resident of Charleroi and apparently did not have an enemy in the world. He was industrious and of a thrifty nature, but possessed a roving disposition. Ten months ago "Pop" left Charleroi. When last seen walking in the direction of Washington and carrying a knapsack containing all his valuable and worldly possessions. From that time until this he was not heard from by his friends, and consequently his death comes as somewhat of a shock. "Pop" claimed he came from Africa, and being a great traveler had visited numerous places on this continent.

Now that Portugal is very much in the public eye, some comparisons with that interesting kingdom may be interesting. Portugal is about three-fourths the size of the State of Pennsylvania in area, and contains a million less inhabitants than this Commonwealth. Yet Portugal is a kingdom, and maintains besides the regular public expenses, such as schools, highways, hospitals and charitable institutions, a standing army and a navy, as well as maintaining diplomatic relations with the other governments of the world. In addition to this is the expenses of royalty, which are incurred by tradition and divine right and not by service or utility, as in this State.

Compared with this it will be seen that the inhabitants of Pennsylvania have a whole lot on the inhabitants of Portugal. To insure domestic safety and tranquility abroad, Portugal must maintain diplomatic relations and special treaties and alliance with other countries in order to prevent some stronger nation from gobbling up her diminutive kingdom. All of this incurs additional expense and taxation, which add to the burden of the Portuguese taxpayer. The people of Pennsylvania have an alliance with Uncle Sam which is all in the family, but affords ample protection, and all that this additional protection costs is some indirect taxes on luxuries, clothing, tobacco, beer and whisky, the payment of much of which is purely optional with the Pennsylvania taxpayer. There is perhaps not a country in Europe but what would gladly exchange taxpaying requirements with Pennsylvania for the national protection afforded.

In the National Guard Pennsylvania has the equivalent of a standing army, and it is not particularly expensive.

in the matter of schools, public service, charity and the well being of the citizens, Pennsylvania's government is so far ahead of Portugal's that there is no comparison. To maintain our State standing army, our splendid system of schools, our courts of justice, our good roads improvements, our charitable institutions, our health board, our agricultural department, and the various other public institutions that are doing such splendid service for the well being of the people a tax of but fourteen cents per capita is imposed and collected. By comparing our condition with that of Portugal, it will be seen that the people of Pennsylvania are signally blessed. A government that requires but fourteen cents per capita a year from its inhabitants cannot be particularly corrupt or oppressive.

A State Bounty

In order to diffuse expert information among other citizens, the Agricultural Department of the State has instituted free Correspondence Courses in Agriculture. There are thirty-three courses of study, under direction of the Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture and they are designed for the dairyman, the farmer, the gardener, the florist, the poultry and stock raiser, and others who desire to pursue a course of study in their own homes. Students may be enrolled at any time by filling out blanks sent out by the college. There is no charge for enrollment or instruction. The only cost is the book, which is recommended as a basis for study in each course.

These courses will be found beneficial for a number of reasons among which may be mentioned the following: First, they furnish information of direct value to the farmer; second, they encourage systematic rather than desultory reading and study; third, they encourage reading to a purpose rather than merely as a pastime; fourth, they stimulate habits of study and experiment, helping the pupil find out things for himself; fifth, they in many cases suggest points bearing on the farm which have not been brought to notice.

The instructions cover practically all of the ordinary farm operations including general agriculture or crop production, animal husbandry, dairying, horticulture and the home. A course in pedagogy of agriculture is also given, primarily for teachers. Those interested should write to the Department of Agricultural Education, State College, Pa., for catalogue of the Correspondence Courses and enrollment blanks. The tuition is free there being no fees whatever connected with the courses.

Gives the Cold Facts

Chairman Henry F. Walton of the Republican State committee has issued the Republican campaign text book. The cover is embellished with portraits of Candidates Tener, Reynolds, Wright and Houck and a large portrait of President Taft is used as a frontispiece.

The book, among other things, contains the President's letter to Congressman McKinley, biographical sketches of the several candidates of Senators Penrose and Oliver, whose pictures are also reproduced: the National and State Republican platforms and special articles showing that Pennsylvania is free from debt, giving the legislation passed by Republican lawmakers in the interest of labor, the farmer, the war-veterans and soldiers' orphans and on taxation, showing that the corporations pay the bulk of taxes and that the Republican party should be credited with much other meritorious legislation. H. B. Nesbitt, who compiled the book, also takes up the tariff issue among other things and refutes the proposition that the "the high cost of living is due to the tariff."

The book gives an array of cold facts and figures that are a matter of official record, and they completely refute the charges of commission and omission that are made against the State administration for political purposes.

Bran doesn't cost as much as beef steak, and is a good diet for cattle. A little imagination is all that is needed to lower the cost of living.

NATIONAL UNION OF STATE FIGHT

Congress and Next Presidency Involved in Result.

The campaign now being waged throughout Pennsylvania and in every congressional district in the Union, is of national scope.

It leads directly up to the presidential election. Two years from now we shall be electing a president. This struggle is purely national. This fact should not be overlooked.

All over the country the Democrats are aroused. They are claiming that in November they will elect a majority in the national house of representatives. They have figured—and they are right in their figures—that if they can but gain thirteen senators they will also control the senate. They already have carried the state of Maine, which means the gain of two representatives and one United States senator. They believe that they can win in New York, in Massachusetts, in Ohio, in Indiana, in a dozen states now aligned with the Republican party.

They are cock sure of the house. They are cock sure that they will reduce the Republican majority in the senate to a beggarly majority, even if they do not wipe out that majority entirely.

But they are certain, if they fail in getting rid of that majority this time that, two years hence, they will sweep that majority out of existence. Two years hence they expect to elect their president and give him a Democratic Congress.

That is the object at which they are aiming, and they have brought the chairman of the Democratic national congressional committee into Pennsylvania to help them to do it.

For they rely upon Pennsylvania to help along the Democratic cause.

It is up to the Republicans of Pennsylvania to say whether they shall receive aid in this great Republican state.

There are two sets of Democrats in Pennsylvania. There are the Berry Democrats, who are running after William H. Berry, the friend, the follower, the disciple of William Jennings Bryan. Mr. Berry wants to be elected governor, but at the same time he asks you to vote for him on the Keystone Party ticket, which carries numerous Democratic candidates for congress and for the legislature.

Vote for Berry on the Keystone ticket and you vote not only for the repudiation of President Taft, for the repudiation of former President Roosevelt, but you vote for Democratic congressmen and for Democratic or assistant Democratic members of the legislature.

And if you vote for Democratic members of the legislature you vote in turn for a Democratic United States senator, and you vote for a combination which will reapportion the state in the congressional districts that additional Democratic congress-

The Cry of the Age is "Back to the Farm"

With the best market in the world at his door, the intensive farmer located in the Monongahela valley is the wise man of his generation.

Every town has as much need of the small truck, fruit and poultry farms around it as it has for more factories. Such farms make living better and cheaper for the laboring man and more business for the merchant.

I have secured control of a large farm within five minutes walk of the borough limits and will, within the next six weeks, sell it out in small farms. I now have purchasers for about one-half of it and owing to the great demand for small farms near Charleroi expect to close all sales for these farms in a very short time.

A farm big enough for all the boys to work as a truck, poultry and fruit farm while the father works at the mill, can be bought for the price of a cheap town lot. Good country school nearby.

A farm big enough to require the whole time of one intensive farmer can be bought for $500.00. Read the Pittsburg papers about the great land show which will be held there within the next few weeks and learn what can be raised on a few acres of ground by the new methods of intensive farming.

Call at the office of Charles O. Frye, 511 Washington Avenue, and get full particulars.

Mr. Berry heads one set of Democrats—the Berry contingent Webster Grim, the leader of the other set of Democrats—the "regular" set—also asks you to elect Democratic congressmen and Democratic members of the legislature. The two Democratic candidates are for themselves when it comes to the governorship. They are for the Democratic party in all other respects.

If you want a Democrat in the executive mansion and if you want a Democratic congress, and if you want a Democratic legislature which means in turn a Democratic United States senator and a reapportionment of the congressional districts on a Democratic basis, why by all means vote for Berry or Grim.

I esteem him as a man of high character, clean in thought and speech, and beyond the slightest reproach in public or private life.

Mr. Murphy expressed the belief that Mr. Tener will have a big majority.

Progressive Pennsylvania.

In one of his recent speeches Mr. Tener took occasion to refer to the advanced position held by Pennsylvania in the matter of statutes advanced by some so-called progressives, laws for the protection of labor and other interests, and upon this subject, among other things he said:

"I have frequently stated and absolutely believe that Pennsylvania is the best governed state in the nation and that its several administrative departments are honestly and efficiently governed."

"During the past four years Pennsylvania in advance of all the other states, met the issues and gave to the people such laws as were demanded and in this respect took advanced ground in what is now known as progressive legislation so much so that after by our sister states, and resulting entirely to the credit of the Republican party and to the great honor of this commonwealth."

"Today many of our sister states are seeking to emulate the example set by Pennsylvania and especially is New York state active in this respect. The differences between the factions there are due to divided opinion upon just such legislation as we have already enacted into law. Pennsylvania, through the Republican party, has placed many laws on its statute books favorable to the workmen, and these laws were passed at the suggestion and in compliance with the issues of union labor."

Strong Taxation Policy.

In this connection one of his colleagues the nominee for lieutenant governor, John M. Reynolds, a few nights ago, said:

"The policy of the Republican party in this state since 1866 has been to relieve the individual of the burden of taxation and to place the same upon those sources most able to bear it. This will be seen from the fact that the total revenues for 1909, amounting to over $29,000,000, were derived from four sources: Corporations, about seventeen million dollars; personal property, over four million dollars; collateral inheritance, over one million seven hundred thousand dollars; mercantile, brewery and distilleries licenses, over three million dollars."

"From this were supported the state government, charitable institutions, hospitals for the insane, dispensaries, sanitariums, reformatories and penitentiaries, soldiers' orphans' schools, besides payment for primary election expenses, appropriations to public schools and other items aggregating a little over thirty million dollars."

"The fact that stands out most prominent and to the credit of the foresight and skill of our lawmakers is shown in comparing the revenues and expenses of 1890 with that of 1909. In the former year the revenues and expenses were each over eight millions, and in 1909 they were each in excess of twenty-nine million dollars."

"With few changes in the tax laws the approximate growth paid in the main this excess in revenues, enabling the state government to relieve local taxation."

"The wisdom shown by this system is today commanding the attention of our sister states, and movements are on foot in some of them, to secure its adoption by them, which shows that practical business heads have directed the affairs in this state."

ROBERT S. MURPHY'S TRIBUTE

Former Lieutenant Governor Speaks in High Praise of His Successful Rival For Governorship.

As the tour of John K. Tener, the nominee for governor, and his colleagues on the Republican ticket carries them from county to county and the day of election draws nearer, interest in the campaign continues to grow and the race has continued to attract immense crowds at every important stopping place. Since the very outset of the campaign there has not been a day without a large and all-arms party.

Probably one of the most interesting occasions on the campaign trail was the one given Mr. Tener in Johnstown, the home of Lieutenant Governor Robert S. Murphy, who was probably the most prominently mentioned of those proposed for the nomination which ultimately went to Mr. Tener. The citizenship of this industrial center turned out in great numbers to greet the Tener party, and Lieutenant Governor Murphy was their spokesman and he presided over the meeting.

Mr. Murphy, in an eloquent address, reviewed the issues and in referring to Mr. Tener spoke of him as "a man of splendid heart, with a sound brain in a sound body, one who is in sympathy with labor and who is acquainted with the toil in the work shop and mill; one who has attained a position in the community in which he resides for business integrity and a business ability second to none; one who has lifted himself by the aid of superior talents into a position of prominence and influence in the financial world of western Pennsylvania; one who ably represented his district in the congress of the United States; one whose Republicanism is unstained and who is in hearty accord with the policies of his party in the nation and with the policies of the present state administration, to the carrying out and execution of which he has pledged himself. None who knows him but will believe that this promise will be thoroughly redeemed."

"It is my privilege," concluded Mr. Murphy, "to know him personally, and

WAS AN INSULT TO DEMOCRATS

Leaders of the Donkey Party Scorn Keystoner's Plan to Dump Candidates TO FIGHT FOR SECOND PLACE

Mr. Tener Returns to Industrial Town Where He Was Once a Clerk and Is Received With Open Arms—He Is Heading a Wave of Enthusiasm Through the State.

The disgruntled and disappointed old factionists in Pennsylvania politics are dying hard, yet they are dying as certainly as night follows day. Here we are within about thirty days of the gubernatorial election and the old chaps who have kept themselves to the front in politics by promoting discord and unrest are halting and hesitating over the best way to deceive the people into securing a continuation of their factional rule. That bushwacking band of has-beens who have been forced well to the rear in the politics of the State have completely exhausted themselves in their malicious determination to foment political discord and the election of John K. Tener, the regular Republican candidate to succeed Governor F. L. Win S. Stuart by a vote much larger than that given to the present executive is absolutely assured. The managers of the Keystone party, realizing their own rapid decay have, for several weeks, been feeling out for some convenient jumping off place. These managers were shrewd enough to anticipate that the voters of the State could not be successfully rallied about a personal grievance. They knew apparently that Mr. Berry, the Keystone party candidate for Governor had nothing to offer but a protest against the Allentown convention which turned him down hard and flat and early in the campaign these managers concluded that the voters were not disposed to discipline the Democracy at best a harmless minority. Then came the motion from the discontents to have both Berry and Webster Grim the regular Democratic candidate for Governor, withdraw from the contest and allow the old factionists to name a candidate that might have some show in the battle with Mr. Tener, the Republican nominee. The factionists forced Berry to the front of the stage with a proclamation that he would retire if he had to. He protested that no other man in the State could successfully take his place but he yielded to the bidding of his factionist managers and agreed to retire if the self-appointed delegates to the personally conducted convention, which nominated him would reassemble and throw him off their ticket. As many of these self-appointed delegates had already seen the error of their way and had returned to their former parties another convention like the one which nominated Berry was physically impossible and of course Mr. Berry knew that fact. The disgruntled Democrats were largely in the majority among the Berrites and were forcing recognition and the selection of Democratic candidates for congress at every possible point in the State. After the Keystone party ticket had been well burdened with Democratic candidates, those Republicans who had been in at the delivery of the Keystone party shifted promptly and the Keystone party soon became a mere faction of the Democracy of the State. It was then that Clarence Gibbons, the Keystone party's candidate for Lieutenant Governor, protested. He had found the angel for the Keystone fight and he promptly served notice that he must refuse to go along further as the tail to the Democratic kite. He refused to allow his fellow factionists to longer exploit their grievances at the expense of his own campaign fund. Berry and all the other Keystone candidates could retire and go to so far as Gibbons was concerned, but he regarded his nomination or appointment as a Keystone party candidate as a personal asset and while the other candidates of the party might do as they pleased he proposed to stick. With a view to moving Gibbons the regular Democrats were appealed to, but all to no purpose. The executive committee of the Democratic organization assembled in Philadelphia last Saturday and simply scorned the motion made originally by disappointed place hunters that the Democratic candidates take themselves out of the State fight. It was unanimously agreed by the Democratic leaders that their candidates should continue in the field to the bitter end. The fusionists and factionists were denounced and it was resolved that the scheme to bring about the retirement of the Democratic candidates was nothing short of an insult. State Chairman Arthur G. Dewalt declared that the regular Democrats of the State would not stand for Mr. Berry. He argued that Berry had entered the Democratic convention as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination and had been beaten, fairly and honestly, and he was opposed vigorously and earnestly to rewarding disappointed place hunters. Chairman Dewalt pointed to the fact that about all the Republicans who had joined in the underground methods by which Mr. Berry was driven a nomination had been some disgusted with the work of the Keystone party and had abandoned it and returned to their own party fold, and he insisted that the Berry men who are opposed to the election of Mr. Tener could find an opportunity to vent their wrath by voting for Mr. Grim or staying away from the polls altogether. The Democratic leaders agreed that the fight in the State had narrowed down to a contest for second place between Mr. Berry and Mr. Grim and they were convinced from the reports at hand that Mr. Grim would beat Berry. They appealed earnestly to their party followers to fight hard to prevent the destruction of their party and they advanced a variety of arguments to prove that Grim would be a stronger candidate than Berry.

In the meantime Mr. Tener is making a triumphal tour through the State. He is making an average of three speeches a day. Wherever he appears he is creating substantial enthusiasm. He is standing firmly upon the record of the Republican party and his own work. He talks earnestly and sincerely to big crowds at every meeting and following him from county to county are the applause and encouragement of a united party.

Of vigorous active, young blood who promises best for the State and its various institutions. Mr. Tener looks like a Governor. His personality is attractive. His manner is gracious and he looks and talks like a positive well balanced business man. He likes the people and naturally the people like him. He is healthy, physically and mentally, and he has a wonderful capacity for hard work. On Saturday last he made a speech at a Republican meeting at Jeannette, in Westmoreland county. He had gone to that place before Jeannette was established. He was employed as a clerk in the first glass house established there and when he returned as a candidate of the majority party for Governor he was received with open arms. He told of the organization of the town as he had personally watched that organization and among other things he said:

"It is not my purpose to dwell at length upon national issues, except to remind you that no measure of prosperity whatever has ever been enjoyed by you, by the people of Pennsylvania or anywhere else in the entire United States except under Republican rule, and through the operation of a protective tariff. The Republican party has ever been committed to maintain a tariff for the protection of American industries and for the benefit of American workmen, and ever will be until such time as labor in this country is content to live as poorly, dress as shabbily, rear their children as ignorantly as in European countries, and with poorer food and less of it than it now enjoys; to the same degree has our party in the State been ever watchful for the best interests of our people."

"The platform of the Republican party was adopted more than three months ago and stands today just as it was written, without one word being added to or taken therefrom and it is the platform upon which I stand squarely, as do my associates on the ticket. It is the platform which the Republican party in New York led by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has practically adopted. It pledges to enact such legislation as the people of this commonwealth demand and is in keeping with the policy of our great party for many years past."

"The success of the Republican party is due to the fact that it has always kept faith with the people in this State, and by the passage of good laws and the rigid enforcement of the same, so that today Pennsylvania under Republican rule is being commended and congratulated by her sister States upon the advance ground she has taken. No less a personage than ex-President Roosevelt in a recent speech delivered at Pittsburgh loudly praised Pennsylvania for her good laws and their fearless enforcement by our State administration. In my opinion it is because of the wise and beneficial legislation which we have enacted and enforced that there is not that uprising in this commonwealth so noticeable in other States at this time."

The Palace—Charleroi

"A Forgotten Melody," was the title on a melodramatic life motion Vitograph picture at the Palace Theatre this week that made a strong impression upon the spectators. The story was that of a happy household made desolate by the disappearance of the wife and mother who labors under the hallucination that her little daughter is drowned. The little one strays from her mother's side to a canoe moored at the river bank where she leaves her hat. Later two boys take the canoe and in their sport upset it and leave it bottom upward. The mother searching for the child, sees the overturned canoe and the hat, and becomes mentally unbalanced through grief. She wanders away, but is found and restored to reason by the childish melodies of the little one. The various scenes show some strong dramatic action Douglas Robertson and Donald Garrison continue to be star attractions with their illustrated and spot light songs. The few exhibitions nightly with a change of program are drawing capacity houses.

The Nixon—Pittsburg

Lillian Russell is coming to the Nixon Theatre next week in her newest vehicle, "In Search of a Sinner," a comedy in three acts by Charlotte Thompson. Miss Thompson had Lillian Russell in mind when she wrote "In Search of a Sinner" and employed many suggestions of the star in the completion of that story. The story itself is quite unique. Miss Russell presents a vivacious picture of a widow who has just decided that if she marries again, her husband will be less a saint but correspondingly human. Falling in love, her plan is upset by the fact that the man is recommended by her friends as a better fellow than her first husband. Inasmuch as the undeviating goodness of the latter became a perfect bore, the widow sets about to try to make the other chap believe he is a sinner. When she finds that she is succeeding, she changes her mind and gets busy trying to win him back.

Mr. Joseph Brooks is presenting Miss Russell this season in the largest production he has ever made for her. Her supporting company is evenly balanced and includes Harry C. Brown, Joseph Tucky, Mattie Russell, Jessie Ralph, Lynn Pratt, Irving Cummins, John C. Brammell, Edward Warren, Victor Benoit, Daniel Fitzgerald, Olive Harper and Viola Leach. There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees at the Nixon during Miss Russell's engagement.

New Duquesne—Pittsburg.

Lughafter will reign supreme at the Duquesne Theatre in Pittsburg next week, October 10, when the Harry Davis Stock company will give "The Man From Mexico." This is the play which made Willie Collier famous. The uproarious comic complications of this farce arise out of the use of hero, Benjamin Fitzbue, to prevent his wife and friends from discovering the fact that he has been obliged—by accident, be it said—to send a short vacation in jail. The first act, in which he is shadowed by a Tammany deputy sheriff in his own home; the second act, in which he does the lockstep with the other "jailbirds" in Blackwell's Island, and becomes mixed up in a prison conspiracy for escape, and the last act, in which he returns to the bosom of his family with the pretense of having spent his 30 days in Mexico, all make the spectators shake their sides with laughter from the first rise of the curtain to the very finish. The description of the bull fight has often been declared to be one of the most side-splitting pieces of wit in any comedy. Not only is the mendacious Fitzbue such an entertaining character, but all the other personages in this lively fare, with its overbubbling, zerriment, are enjoyable characters, for Mrs. Fitzbue, who visits the jail in company with the flower mission, and has a dead secret of her own, to Warden Loveall, a unique character, who falls in love with Fitzbue's wife under a misapprehension as to her identity. All of which would go to forecast an exceptional delightful week at the Duquesne.

The Alvin—Pittsburg

Henry W. Savage's production of "The Merry Widow" will be the attraction at the Alvin Theatre in Pittsburg next week. It comes with an entirely new production on up-to-date lines. The gowns and millinery fresh from the Parisian studios of Mme. Zimmerman and the Landolt's, Paris; and the cast was pronounced during the recent return run in Boston quite the best that has ever been seen in the merry piece.

Mabel Wilber will sing the role of Sona. She first entered the cast during the run at the New Amsterdam Theatre, New York, and has ever since been the attractive widow of Mr. Savage's principal company playing the operetta from the east to the west. Her voice is of excellent quality and highly cultured, and her dancing the most graceful ever seen in the role. Prince Danilo will be played by Charles Meakins. The original comedians of the New York run are with this company. R. E. Graham is Popoff, Fred Frear is Nish and F. J. McCarthy the jealously-torn Nova Kovich. A valuable addition to the present company is Ivy Scott, renowned in Australia for her singing and good acting. Mr. Savage will display his custom lavish expenditure in the orchestral dress of this production. "The Merry Widow" orchestra of grand opera strength under the direction of Arthur Weld, will interpret Lhears' melodies. Harold Blake, one of the best lyric tenors of the light opera stage is also in the cast.

A strange band of little people will invade Pittsburg next week. They will take up their abode in the hotels and boarding houses down town and spend a large portion of their time at the Grand Opera House, where, beginning next Monday afternoon and twice each day during the week, they will be an especially attractive feature of an unusual vaudeville show. They are known as Zeynard's Royal Lilliputians and the company numbers fifty. The smallest of these midgets is twenty five inches tall and the largest is scarcely over thirty inches. They represent practically every nationality in the world and this is the first time so many Lilliputians have been gathered together in a single company. They are loaned to Manager Harry Davis for the week at the Grand by the courtesy of Messrs. Sam S. and Lee Shubert and their performance will consist of a regulation three ring circus. Every one of the dwarfs is a real actor and most of them are gifted with exceptional abilities. They have small horses, dwarf dogs, miniature conveyances, and yet they accomplish feats that would do credit to full grown men and women athletes. There are singers and dancers equestrians, ground and lofty tumblers, aerial gymnasts, acrobats jugglers, animal trainers, etc. Many of them are from far distant climes were born among strange people and have travelled all over the world.

Manager Harry Davis announces all of other acts of the first quality. He will introduce the famous darkey composers Cole and Johnson. They open their act with an original piano solo by Johnson, entitled "Dance Caprice." The vocal numbers in their program include "I Never Knew What Love Was, Sweetheart, Until I Met You," "Let Me Love You a Little Longer, Lindy," "Ring Them Bells," "Winning Ways," "Prophetic Prato Lee," and conclude with a medley of rare old successes, among them "Lindy Lou," "Dreamy Eyes" and "Honey Babe."

The Broadway prima donna, Linden Beckwith, who was with the original production of "The Midnight Sons," will sing a number of songs. She sings "Coming Through the Rye," "True Blue," "Marie" and a popular selection from "The Chocolate Soldier."

The Four McNalleys, three men and one woman will give a combination comedy in which physical feats will dominate.

The popular Meridith Sisters are coming and this will be their first engagement here in four or five years.

Cunningham and Tilton are to introduce acrobats of a comic character and incidentally engage in patter. The bill will contain a number of other important attractions and exhibition of moving pictures.

IMPALED BY AN ARROW.

Pinned Through the Neck to a Tree. Yet He Survived.

It was in the summer of 1879 that George Wainwright and Ben Spencer, each in charge of a train of freight wagons, were headed for the Missouri river to bring supplies back to Colorado points. The Indians were very troublesome in those days, and these two outfits always camped together for protection. One night they had arranged the camp, with the wagons forming a circle, and everybody but the guards was to be inside. Wainwright preferred to sleep in a clump of cottonwoods about a quarter of a mile off, and there he fixed himself with his trusty sword as a body guard. Neither the camp nor Wainwright was disturbed during the night, but early the next morning while Wainwright was sitting on the ground with his back to a tree drinking his tin of coffee an arrow from an unseen foe entered his neck at the right of the jugular vein and was driven with such force as to impale the victim to the tree. The negro, believing his master was killed, ran to Spencer's camp and gave the alarm.

Spencer and some of his men rushed over to Wainwright. Instead of being dead Wainwright was not even seriously injured. Spencer cut the arrow off close to the point of entrance and then cently drew Wainwright's head forward until he was released. The victim suffered but little inconvenience from the wound, and by the time the trip was completed it was entirely healed.—Los Angeles Times.

THE CAMERA OBSCURA.

The camera was invented by an Italian named Baptista Porta, though it was not at first used for photographing. It was in reality merely a dark room, into which the light was admitted through a little round hole in one side. The rays of light coming from objects outside of this room entered it through this aperture and made a picture on the other side of the room glowing in all the beauty and color of nature itself, but rather indistinct and upside down.

This dark room was contrived by Porta about the middle of the sixteenth century. He improved it later by placing a glass lens in the aperture and outside a mirror which reflected the rays of light and reflected them through the lens so that the image upon the opposite wall within the room made much brighter, more distinct and in a natural or erect position. This was really the first camera obscura, an invention which is enjoyed to the present day.

Now our modern photographic camera is merely a small camera obscura in its simplest form, carrying a lens at one end and a ground glass screen at the other. It is, however, often much more complicated in its construction.

RINGGOLD CAVALRYMAN DIES AT RIPE OLD AGE

Benjamin Taylor, aged about 73 years, and a veteran of the Civil War, died at his home in Gastonville, near Finleyville Thursday afternoon at 1:20 o'clock after suffering for some time of paralysis. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence. The deceased was a member of the famous Ringgold Cavalry and saw much active service during the Civil War. He was an uncle of Mrs. S. E. Wilson of Fallowfield avenue.

Hotels Help Pastor

All the Charleroi hotels have offered Rev. C. E. Frontz, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, to entertain four delegates each who are expected to attend the Pittsburgh Synod here next week. In addition the most of the hotels will give reduced rates to others who may entertain delegates at the hotels. Rev. Frontz expects that between 30 and 40 of the 150, or more delegates that are likely to attend will be entertained at the various hotels, the congregation and citizens taking care of the rest.

Postoffice Sure

Postmaster R. A. F. Lyon of Greensburg received word Friday that the Government had awarded the construction of the Federal building of Greensburg to Yeager and Sons of Danville, Ill. Their bid was $37,895. Preparations are under way to break ground for the new building.

DRAWN OUT POISON

Marvelous Antiseptic That Draws Out Glass, Wood and Needles From the Flesh

There never was known such a powerful drawing ointment as San Cura. Wherever it has been used it has created astonishment. It drew a needle out of the foot of the daughter of Mrs. James Hitehouse of Centerville, Pa., after the doctor had used his lance and failed.

Used as a poultice for old or running sores it draws all the poison out and leaves it in such condition that it is entirely healed in a few days.

Nothing so healing or antiseptic can be purchased today. It possesses so much healing virtue that it is guaranteed by W. F. Hennings to quickly cure any kind of piles, eczema, tetter, salt rheum, boils, carbuncles, ulcers, all kinds of chronic sores, chilblains and chapped hands or money back.

It's a mighty handy remedy to have in the house in an emergency, such as bruises, burns, cuts or scalds, because it kills the pain instantly. It's a medicine chest in its-lf--a little family physician that is ever in demand, 25 cents and 50 cents a jar at W. F. Hennings.

BEST SKIN SOAP

Is San Cura Soap, because of its great antiseptic and healing virtue. Use it regularly, and it will make the skin soft and velvety; will remove pimples and blackheads. It's the real soap for babies' tender skin, which mothers of infants should remember. 25 cents a large cake at W. F. Hennings.

DONORA PEOPLE SORE AT THEIR WATER COMPANY

Dissatisfied with the quality of service of the Donora Water company, the council of that place is having investigations made and interesting developments are expected to follow. Anton Weis is the chairman of the special committee appointed to look into complaints. One of the main complaints is from J. B. McCune, chief of the fire department, who says that in a test made by him of fire plugs, there was only a maximum pressure of 90 pounds and two of the plugs were as low as five pounds. It is claimed that there is much filth in the water and that the water company fails to make connections in some places where requests are made.

Miss Carrie Youngman of Washington avenue left this morning for New York city, where she will spend several days with friends.

TIME IS THE TEST

The Testimony of Charleroi People Stand the Test

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Charleroi people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented. A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. Charles Bromwich, 714 Washington avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says: "About two years ago I had a severe attack of kidney disease and suffered a great deal from pains in the small of my back. I was also subject to headaches and feeling of languor and although I tried a number of remedies I was not helped. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally recommended to me, and desiring to try them, I procured a box at Piper Bros.' Drug Store. In a few days after using this remedy, I felt a great deal better and before long a complete cure was effected. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement." Statement given September 3, 1907.

CURED PERMANENTLY.

On November 6, 1909, Mrs. Bromwich said: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as highly today as when I gave a public statement in their favor two years ago. The cure this remedy effected has been permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name--Doan's--and take no other.
